Brief Profile of Luncheon Speakers, SDA, 2004

Friday, October 15th: S. Philip Morgan, Duke University

Title: The Global Spread of Low Fertility

S. Philip Morgan is Professor and Departmental Chairperson of Sociology at Duke University. After earning his Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Arizona in 1980, he has served as a postdoctoral researcher and research associate at the Carolina Population Center at UNC Chapel Hill (1980-83), and on the faculties of the University of Georgia (1983-84), the University of Pennsylvania (1984-1998), and Duke University (1998-present). Among other appointments and honors, he recently served as President of the Population Association of America (2003) and as Editor of Demography (1998-2001). His research focuses on human fertility and, more specifically, addresses the factors that explain variation in fertility across populations. A mainstream sociological perspective guides his research. His perspective focuses attention on group-specific structural and cultural factors, such as differences in the nature of patriarchy, or variation in educational and economic institutions. Statistical and demographic techniques, new or unusual data, and particular research opportunities frequently provide leverage, that is, the power to answer his key questions convincingly. This leverage plays a key role in his choice of particular research questions and projects. Professor Morgan is the author of 2 books and numerous scientific articles, comments, and reviews in his area of study.

Saturday, October 16th: Nancy A. Denton, University at Albany, SUNY

Title: Rethinking Residential Segregation in a Multi-Ethnic World

Nancy A. Denton is Associate Professor of Sociology and Associate Director of the Center for Social and Demographic Analysis (CSDA) at the University at Albany, SUNY. After earning her Ph.D. in demography from the University of Pennsylvania in 1984, she served as a post-doctoral research associate in the Population Studies Center at the University of Pennsylvania (1984-1987), a research associate at the Population Research Center at the University of Chicago (1987-1990), and on the faculty at the University of Albany, SUNY (1990-present). Denton's research emphasizes spatial racial and ethnic inequality by comparing patterns, causes, and consequences of residential segregation in large urban areas of the U.S. Her past research on residential segregation is well known and culminated in American Apartheid: Segregation and the Making of the Underclass, which she published with Douglas Massey in 1993. Recently, Denton co-edited, American Diversity: A Demographic Challenge for the Twenty-First Century with Stewart Tolnay, and she is currently working on a 2000 Census report for Russell Sage/PRB titled, "The Geography of Opportunity for Children." This report focuses on the distribution of U.S. children, by race/ethnicity and immigrant status, across regions, states, metropolitan areas, cities, suburbs and neighborhoods.

SPECIAL SDA SESSIONS, 2004

Session 2.1: Friday, 10/15/04, 10:15-11:45

Title: Session in the Memory of William J. Serow: Demography of U.S. Migration

Room: Lord's Proprietors

Chair: Jeralynn Sittig Cossman, Mississippi State University

Description: This session is in memory of William J. Serow: former President of the SDA, colleague, and friend, who passed away just days after our 2003 annual meeting.

Session 2.2: Friday, 10/15/04, 10:15-11:45

Title: Panel Session: School Demography

Room: Palmetto

Chair: Lori Post, Michigan State University

Description: This session includes an expert panel who discuss current issues and controversies in school demography.

Session 3.1: Friday, 10/15/04, 1:45-3:15

Title: Nam-Powers-Boyd Occupational Scores for 2000: A Tutorial

Room: Lord's Proprietors

Chair: Charles B. Nam, Florida State University

Description: This session presents Census-based occupational status scores for 2000, along with information on how they were constructed and how they can be used. Illustrative applications of the scores will be demonstrated.

Session 4.2: Friday, 10/15/04, 3:30-5:00

Title: How to Apply For (and GET) Funding from NICHD

Room: Bayley's Baroney

Chair: Rebecca L. Clark, NICHD

Description: This session brings together an extraordinary panel to provide expert information on applying for, and achieving success with, funding from NICHD. Graduate students, postdoctoral researchers, and assistant professors are especially encouraged to attend.

Session 6.1: Saturday, 10/16/04, 10:15-11:45

Title: National Data on Children and Families: Information and Software Demonstration

Room: Captain Jack Stoney

Chair: Jerry West, U.S. Department of Education

Description: This session is intended to provide information about 3 of the most comprehensive data resources in the nation. The overall goal of the session will be to inform researchers about the three studies and to describe what the databases can offer separately and together. The session will include a demonstration of the software that is available to users of the data.

SPECIAL SESSIONS, CON'D.

Session 6.4: Saturday, 10/16/04, 10:15-11:45

Title: Research Experience for Undergraduates (REU) I: Health and Well-Being

Room: Palmetto

Chair: Omer Galle, University of Texas at Austin

Description: This session is the first of two that highlights research of undergraduate students who participated in the University of Texas at Austin's Summer REU Program on the Demography of Minority Groups. Come hear from, and support, the future of our discipline!

Session 7.2: Saturday, 10/16/04, 1:45-3:15

Title: An Overview of the Policy Implications and Applications of Administrative Records Research Programs: A Moderated Discussion

Room: Bayley's Baroney
